ORDER MODIFYING AUTOMATIC STAY SOLELY FOR PURPOSES OF FILING AND SERVING CERTAIN CIVIL COMPLAINTS UNDER MARYLAND LAW ON OR BEFORE MAY 31, 2025

A chapter 11 petition is a powerful tool. The mere filing of the petition triggers an automatic stay of most all actions concerning a debtor’s prepetition financial affairs, including litigation seeking to impose liability on the debtor or otherwise affect its assets. The automatic stay necessarily affects the rights of the debtor’s creditors and others whose lives have been impacted by, or intersected with, the debtor. The Court is thus mindful of the consequences of any determination that the stay applies to particular actions or property and the need to proceed carefully to ensure that all parties’ rights are preserved and addressed in accordance with the Bankruptcy Code and, to the extent possible, applicable nonbankruptcy law.

The debtor in this case filed its chapter 11 petition in anticipation of the filing of hundreds, if not thousands, of lawsuits relating to claims of child sexual abuse by individuals and entities related to the debtor. The imposition of the automatic stay in this case was notable for at least two reasons. First, the case was filed immediately before a change in state law eliminating the statute of limitations on claims asserted by the survivors of child sexual abuse. Second, the Court determined that the stay extended to protect not only the debtor in this case but also property of the debtor and the debtor's estate, namely prepetition insurance policies. The pending matter asks the Court to clarify its prior order concerning the scope of the automatic stay in this case, as another change to state law is imminent and could again affect the rights of the survivors of child sexual abuse.

The Court has considered the parties' respective arguments. The Court is concerned with several issues in this matter, including notice and due process, preserving all parties' rights to the greatest extent possible, and balancing the arguably competing objectives of bankruptcy and applicable state law. Based on the record before it and the uncertainty surrounding the impact of applicable state law, the Court finds cause to modify the automatic stay under section 362(d)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code solely to permit the filing and service of civil complaints for child sexual abuse claims under Maryland law in the appropriate state or other nonbankruptcy court, subject to the terms and conditions of this Order.

I. Relevant Background

The Roman Catholic Archbishop of Baltimore (the "Debtor") filed a petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code¹ on September 29, 2023.² ECF 1. On that same date, the Debtor filed a Motion to Extend the Automatic Stay (the "Stay Motion") to certain related entities included as additional insureds under the Debtor's various current and legacy insurance programs. ECF 12. The Court entered an interim order granting certain of the relief requested by the Stay Motion, which was then continued under the Second Interim Order, Pursuant to Sections 105(a) and 362 of the Bankruptcy Code, Extending the Automatic Stay to Certain Related Entities (the “Stay Order”).³ ECF 52, 173.

The Stay Order was grounded, in part, on the finding that the Debtor’s prepetition insurance policies are property of the Debtor’s bankruptcy estate under section 541 of the Code. 11 U.S.C. § 541(a). The insurance policies name the Debtor as an insured and may be available to pay covered claims asserted against the Debtor in this case. The Stay Order is intended to preserve the value of estate assets for the benefit of all claimants and remains in effect to prevent parties from commencing or continuing litigation against the Debtor and certain of the Debtor’s related entities that are also covered by the Debtor’s insurance policies.

The Debtor has acknowledged that the filing of this case and the need for the Stay Order resulted from the Maryland Child Victims Act (the “CVA”), passed by the Maryland General Assembly in April 2023. The CVA eliminated the statute of limitations on civil lawsuits involving child sexual abuse. The CVA became effective on October 1, 2023, immediately after the filing of this case.

Since that time, the Debtor, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the “UCC”), and the Debtor’s insurance carriers (the “Insurers”) have been engaged in this case, participating in mediation, and working towards a plan of reorganization. The primary creditors in this case are the survivors of child sexual abuse (“Survivors”), and the members of the UCC are in fact Survivors themselves.

The UCC filed the pending motion to clarify the scope of the Stay Order (the “Motion”). ECF 1043. Specifically, the Motion seeks, among other things, to identify the entities subject to the Court’s Stay Order and the automatic stay of section 362(a) of the Code and to determine the effect of proofs of claim filed by Survivors in the chapter 11 case. Id. The Motion addresses important and time-sensitive issues facing Survivors, the Debtor, the Debtor’s nondebtor affiliates, and the Insurers, relating to an amendment to the CVA adopted by the Maryland General Assembly in April 2025 (the “CVA Amendment”). The CVA Amendment reduces the amount of noneconomic damages a Survivor may recover. H.B. 1378, 2025 Leg., 447 Sess. (Md. 2025).⁴

The Debtor, certain of the Insurers, and counsel representing certain survivors filed papers in response to the Motion. ECF 1089, 1093, 1104, 1110, 1111, 1112, 1113, 1116, 1118, 1119.⁵

The Court held a hearing on the Motion and all related papers on May 1, 2025 (the “Hearing”). This matter is now ripe for resolution.⁶

II. Key Findings and Circumstances

At prior hearings in this case, the Debtor has explained its organizational structure, and the various resources and assets shared by it and certain of its nondebtor affiliates. ECF 5, 91, 212. The potential use of estate assets by entities other than the Debtor during this bankruptcy case is concerning. Indeed, to the extent that a nondebtor entity can use an estate asset for its benefit, such use necessarily depletes the value of the asset that otherwise would be available for the estate and the Debtor’s creditors. It also may create unnecessary distractions that delay further progress in this case.

Here, the Debtor has historically maintained and currently maintains a centralized insurance program, which is administered by the Debtor and arranges for or provides risk

⁴ The CVA Amendment appears to make multiple changes to the CVA, including 1) a reduction of the statutory cap for the amount of noneconomic damages that may be awarded from a private institution from $1,500,000 to $700,000; 2) a reduction of the statutory cap for the amount of liability of the State from $890,000 to $400,000; and 3) a reduction in the statutory cap for the amount of counsel fees that may be charged to 20% of a settlement, and 25% of a judgment.

⁵ The Court also invited parties to submit additional papers after the May 1, 2025, hearing, which are found at ECF 1122, 1123, 1124, 1125.

⁶ The Court has jurisdiction over this contested matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1334. The District Court has referred this case and this matter to this Court under 28 U.S.C. § 157(a) and Local Rule 402 of the United States District Court for the District of Maryland. This matter is a “core proceeding” under 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2).

protection and risk management services for the Debtor and all Covered Parties (the “General Insurance Program”). ECF 6 at ¶¶ 50–57. See also ECF 5, 10. The legacy portion of the General Insurance Program has historically provided general liability insurance for the Debtor and certain of its nondebtor affiliates (the “Covered Parties”), including coverage for liability arising from child sexual abuse claims. Under the General Insurance Program, child sexual abuse actions may be asserted against a finite group of insurance policies that provides coverage for the Debtor and the Covered Parties, regardless of whether such claims are brought against the Debtor or a Covered Party.⁷

III. Analysis

A chapter 11 case is intended to serve the dual goals of rehabilitating debtors and maximizing value for creditors. In some cases, these goals converge, in that aggregating all the debtor’s assets and debts in one forum might facilitate a more timely and fair resolution for all creditors. Indeed, a bankruptcy stops the race to the courthouse and the dissipation of a debtor’s assets by those who are first in line to file actions and obtain judgments.

Although equality of treatment among similarly situated creditors is laudable, the Bankruptcy Code does not permit pursuit of that goal at all costs. There are limits. The Debtor cannot use the Code as a sword and a shield;⁸ it must use the bankruptcy tools in a fair and consistent manner. Here, if the Debtor wants the continued protection of the Code, it must use the Code in a manner that aligns with the Code’s objectives and respects, to the extent possible, applicable state law.

⁷ To date in this case, the parties have discussed only the existence of the General Insurance Program. The Court makes no findings concerning the scope, coverage, parties’ rights, or any other such matters at this time. All parties’ rights are reserved.

As discussed above, the Maryland General Assembly has passed the CVA Amendment, an amendment that reduces the amount of noneconomic damages available to survivors of child sexual abuse for actions filed on or after June 1, 2025. This amendment poses a dilemma for individuals who might have claims under the CVA but have been, and continue to be, unable to file the appropriate nonbankruptcy action because of the Debtor's bankruptcy case. Indeed, the Stay Order states that "any action taken by a third party, including without limitation parties asserting Abuse Action, that could have an effect on property of the Debtor's estate, including without limitation any action that triggers or would otherwise diminish coverage under the Debtor's insurance policies, is hereby stayed by the automatic stay pursuant to sections 105(a) and 362(a)(3) of the Bankruptcy Code until the conclusion of the Final Hearing, as defined herein." ECF 173.

The CVA Amendment and the Motion require the Court to: (i) consider the scope of the Stay Order and the language of the Code; (ii) review the potential parties subject to the Stay Order and the potential impact on the parties' rights under state law; and (iii) determine the appropriate balance between the Debtor's rights under the Code and the parties' rights under state law. The Court evaluates these issues in turn below.

A. The Scope of the Stay Order

The Stay Order was entered after two separate hearings in this case and on largely a consensual basis. The objective of the Court—and likely the parties—at the time was to protect property of the Debtor's bankruptcy estate while the Debtor, the UCC, and the Insurers discussed a possible global resolution (or at least a path to a resolution) in this case. The protection afforded by the Stay Order is grounded in the General Insurance Program being property of the estate. Section 362(a)(3) stays "any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate.” 11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(3). Moreover, section 105(a) of the Code allows the Court to “issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of” the Code. Id. at § 105(a). Although section 105(a) does not allow the Court to defy another provision of the Code, the section does permit directives in furtherance of the Code and the Code’s objectives. See, e.g., Law v. Siegel, 571 U.S. 415, 421 (2014).⁹ The Stay Order thus pauses, on a temporary basis, all actions that impact or potentially impact the General Insurance Program.

The Stay Order also included procedures to protect Survivors and other parties potentially subject to its provisions. For example, any party could ask the Debtor’s counsel to quickly identify whether a nondebtor entity was a Covered Party, thus bringing any actions against it within the scope of the Stay Order. Indeed, the Debtor’s counsel emphasized the availability of this tool as a means to help mitigate any uncertainty arising under the Stay Order. See Hrg. Tr., ECF 1090 at p. 25; Order Setting Deadlines and Scheduling May 1, 2025, Hearing, ECF 1044 (ordering that a Notice shall be posted by the UCC including, among other things, an explanation of “the process established by paragraph 5 of the Second Interim Order at ECF 173 for parties to provide the names of entities to the Debtor to determine whether the Debtor believes such entities are covered by the Debtor’s insurance policies and the terms of that Second Interim Order at ECF 173[.]”); Notice of Compliance with Order Setting Deadlines and Scheduling May 1, 2025 Hearing, ECF 1075.

⁹ As the Supreme Court explained,

It is hornbook law that § 105(a) “does not allow the bankruptcy court to override explicit mandates of other sections of the Bankruptcy Code.” 2 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 105.01[2], p. 105–6 (16th ed. 2013). Section 105(a) confers authority to “carry out” the provisions of the Code, but it is quite impossible to do that by taking action that the Code prohibits. That is simply an application of the axiom that a statute’s general permission to take actions of a certain type must yield to a specific prohibition found elsewhere.

Siegel, 571 U.S. at 421.

Based on the papers and the parties' statements at the Hearing, the Court determines that the Stay Order applies only to actions against the Debtor and the Covered Parties that are covered by an asset of this estate, namely the General Insurance Program. Schedule A hereto lists those entities that the Debtor has identified as being covered by the General Insurance Program as of the date of this Order. The Court is not making any factual findings regarding the accuracy of Schedule A at this time but relies on the representation of the Debtor's counsel and the ability of parties (including the Debtor) to seek a modification of such list of Covered Parties.¹⁰

B. Limited Modification of the Stay

Notably, clarifying the scope of the Stay Order does not necessarily resolve the issues raised by the Motion. The Court must still determine how the Stay Order and the Code interact with the CVA Amendment and Maryland law. The Court strives to implement the provisions and the purpose of the Code and Maryland law to the greatest extent possible.

Having considered the parties' statements at the Hearing and the entirety of the record, the Court determines that cause exists to modify the automatic stay of section 362(a) of the Code and the Stay Order solely to permit Survivors to file and serve a complaint relating to child sexual abuse claims against the Debtor and the Covered Parties under Maryland law in the appropriate nonbankruptcy court. Although the Debtor and Covered Parties will need to file a Suggestion of Bankruptcy and a copy of this Court's Order in each such action, that burden is significantly outweighed by the potential harm to Survivors if the stay remains unaltered. Moreover, the Court will—at this time—continue to mitigate any such burden by maintaining the automatic stay of section 362(a) of the Code as to those actions filed after the entry of this Order and involving the Debtor and the Covered Parties and affecting estate property (i.e., the General Insurance Program).

The Court reaches this determination under the factors set forth by the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit in In re Robbins, 964 F.2d 342, 345 (4th Cir. 1992), as amended (May 27, 1992). Specifically, the Court considers “(1) whether the issues in the pending litigation involve only state law, so the expertise of the bankruptcy court is unnecessary; (2) whether modifying the stay will promote judicial economy and whether there would be greater interference with the bankruptcy case if the stay were not lifted because matters would have to be litigated in bankruptcy court; and (3) whether the estate can be protected properly by a requirement that creditors seek enforcement of any judgment through the bankruptcy court.” Id.

Here, it is undisputed that the Survivors’ claims are governed by Maryland law; in addition, if trial is needed on those claims, the state court or the federal district court is likely the appropriate forum. Although these facts support the first element of the Robbins analysis, the second and third factors strongly support some maintenance of the automatic stay as to the Debtor and its property and/or property of the estate on a temporary basis. The Debtor simply cannot dedicate the time and resources needed to participate in the Court-ordered mediation process in this case and confirm a chapter 11 plan if it is also litigating hundreds of lawsuits in nonbankruptcy courts. The Debtor and others involved in this case have recognized the Debtor’s objective of achieving a global resolution of all claims for the benefit of all parties, which is still a viable objective at this time. Moreover, and as concerning to the Court, that litigation may significantly deplete the Debtor’s General Insurance Program and the assets otherwise available to pay all Survivors, as opposed to only those who reach the assets first.¹¹

¹¹ See, e.g., In re Joyner, 416 B.R. 190 (Bankr. M.D.N.C. 2009) (tailoring modification of the automatic stay to protect the rights of creditors, the estate, and judicial economy).

Accordingly, and on balance, the Court finds a limited modification of the automatic stay and the Stay Order warranted at this time.

That said, the Court wants to note what it is not deciding in this Order. The UCC argues in its papers that proofs of claim filed in this case by Survivors constitute “actions” as that term is used in the CVA Amendment. The UCC thus posits that no further filings are needed by Survivors who have timely filed proofs of claim. The Court acknowledges but does not address the merits of that legal position at this time.

Similarly, the Court notes that section 108(c) of the Code tolls the statute of limitations for certain kinds of actions. The Court is not resolving whether section 108(c) tolls the filing deadline set forth in the CVA Amendment with respect to the Debtor or any Covered Party; that issue remains for another day.

Moreover, the Court is not by this Order imposing a permanent stay on any nonbankruptcy court litigation commenced as a result of this Order. Rather, the Court is continuing a temporary stay of such litigation against the Debtor and the Covered Parties, which the Court will continue to monitor. As the Court has suggested at prior hearings, this chapter 11 case has now been pending for almost two years and the Debtor needs to develop its plan of reorganization and provide Survivors and others a clear understanding of its exit strategy in the near term. Without such progress, the Court’s ability to maintain the current status quo weakens and alternative approaches may be needed.

Accordingly, it is, by the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Maryland,

ORDERED, that the automatic stay of section 362(a) of the Code and the Stay Order are modified solely to the extent necessary to allow individuals to commence an action against the

Debtor and/or any Covered Party by filing and serving a complaint for child sexual abuse claims under Maryland law on or before May 31, 2025; and it is further

ORDERED, that the Debtor and/or any Covered Party named as a defendant in any litigation commenced under the immediately preceding decretal paragraph shall file a Suggestion of Bankruptcy and a copy of this Order notifying the state court or other nonbankruptcy court of the temporary stay on any further filings or proceedings in that action, pending the dismissal or conversion of this chapter 11 case or further Order of the Court; and it is further

ORDERED, that the terms of this Order are effective regardless of whether the Debtor, a Covered Party, or any other party files a Suggestion of Bankruptcy in any nonbankruptcy court action, provided, however, that the Debtor and/or the Covered Parties shall use their best efforts to file Suggestions of Bankruptcy and copies of this Order in all relevant nonbankruptcy actions; and it is further

ORDERED, that any party seeking to file an action based on child sexual abuse claims against any entity that is not the Debtor and/or is not listed as a Covered Party may provide the names of the intended defendants to counsel for the Debtor; within two (2) business days of receiving the identities of any intended defendant(s), counsel for the Debtor will provide notice of whether the Debtor believes such intended defendants are covered by the Debtor's insurance policies; and it is further

ORDERED, that the term "Covered Parties" as used in this Order and the Stay Order means those entities listed on Schedule A attached hereto, provided, however, that any party may file an appropriate motion with the Court to add, remove, or clarify the entities identified on Schedule A; and it is further

ORDERED, that except to the extent set forth herein, pursuant to sections 105(a) and 362(a) of the Code, the Stay Order [ECF 173] remains in full force and effect; and it is further

ORDERED, that nothing in this Order affects the parties' respective rights and remedies concerning the treatment of a proof of claim for purposes of the CVA and the CVA Amendment, the tolling of any relevant deadlines under section 108(c) of the Code, or the merits of any claims under applicable nonbankruptcy law; and it is further ORDERED, that the 14-day stay imposed by Fed. R. Bankr. P. 4001(a)(3) does not apply to this Order, and the Order is effective upon entry.
